Colorado Adult & Community Agencies

Special education services are mandated or required for all eligible students with disabilities in K-12 education. Services through adult agencies may have eligibility requirements and waitlists. Partnerships between the school, family, and agencies are an important aspect of the transition planning process. There are many agencies that serve youth and adults with disabilities. Some offer vocational and residential services, others provide personal support or financial assistance. State agencies have services available in most local communities throughout the state, however it is important to identify locally what is available in your community.
